

ON TWO WORDS

Committee on Resolutions Split.

Foraker and Dick Demand "No Less" Approval Than Roosevelt

AND THEY FORCED IT.

Strong General Endorsement Given to the Trio of Differers.

Burton's Plea That Dick Be Shelved Was Turned to the Wall.

Dayton, Ohio, Sept. 12.—United States Senator Chas. Dick won a decisive victory at the republican state convention here today in his contest for the chairmanship of the state executive committee. Involved in the fight was a resolution to endorse both President Roosevelt and both the Ohio senators who had not always agreed with the president in all matters of national legislation. Here, also Senator Dick won, since to the senators was given commendation in every way equal to that given the president. However, Congressman Burton, of Cleveland, and Harry Daugherty, of Columbus, who had waged warfare on the state chairman were not defeated without a struggle. They accepted defeat gracefully.

After the real fight of the convention had been settled the delegates took up the business for which the convention had been called, the nominating of a state ticket headed by Carl A. Thompson, of Ironton, Ohio, present speaker of the house of representatives as secretary of state, who was nominated on the second ballot.

R. W. Durlap was nominated for dairy and food commissioner.

A. E. Jones for state school commissioner.

George H. Watkins, of Scioto county, for member board of public works.

Dayton, O., Sept. 12.—The work of the committee on resolutions of the republican state convention was still incomplete when at 1:15 o'clock an adjournment was taken by the whole committee until 8 o'clock. A sub-committee of five had been left to frame the platform along the lines agreed on by the members of committee and the morning session was for the purpose of receiving and acting on their report. Agreements had been practically reached on all points at issue and there seemed no doubt that only a brief session would be necessary today.

On the matter of endorsements the words "no less" were for a long time the main stumbling block. Hearty and cordial endorsement was accorded President Roosevelt and the friends of Senators Foraker and Dick insisted that the plank should read and "no less" cordial do we endorse the two senators. The two words were finally dropped and a strong general endorsement was given both president and senators.

In the way of contests, the settlement of the state chairmanship last night removed one of the main distractions from the contest of the nominations for state officers. During the breathing spells from other contests the friends of the candidates had been working and their activity was quickened over night. But four places were to be filled. For secretary of state, Carl A. Thompson; speaker of the house of representatives, Franklin P. Riegle, Benjamin F. Wirt, A. G. Comings and Robert P. Kennedy were in the field. The desire of George H. Watkins, member of the board of public works for re-nomination was contested by James C. Foster.

E. A. Jones, state school commissioner, is not opposed for re-nomination.

Dayton, O., Sept. 12.—When Temporary Chairman Herriek called the republican state convention to order today there was a general anticipation of a warm session. Although the state executive chairmanship had been settled at last night's meeting of the new state central committee, the anti-Dick forces were not entirely ready to admit defeat and a continuance of the contest on the floor of the convention in some form was looked for.

A few minutes before time for the convention to meet the committee

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

To Charges of Violating the Anti-Trust Law.

Findlay, Ohio, Sept. 12.—A plea of "Not guilty" has been entered in the probate court here by John D. Rockefeller on the charge of violating the anti-trust law through the Standard Oil company.

Mr. Rockefeller was not personally in court. He pleaded through an attorney. The defendants in the cases against the pipe line also pleaded not guilty in the same way and each demanded a separate trial by jury.

Judge Banker adjourned court until the first Monday in October in order to make this possible. It is expected the trials will be started on that day.

On resolutions completed its report although there was believed to be still a possibility of a minority report. The report of the committee on credentials showed a contest in Tuscarawas county.

On a roll call the committee's report was amended by dividing the vote between the contestants.

James Holcomb, of Cuyahoga county, moved that "it be the sense of this convention that Senator Dick be requested to decline to act as the chairman in the state executive committee and that he co-operate with the state central committee in the selection of a chairman thereof to manage the pending state campaign."

Burton Pleads For Fairness.

Congressman Burton immediately took the platform and spoke vigorously in support of the motion.

After expressing a desire for a "solid phalanx of republicans to go forth to victory," Burton continued: "When we are through the question of the one to whom the greatest credit is due will be determined along the line of the man who can cast his spear farthest and with the greatest strength into the ranks of the enemy (applause). But we insist on fair play (applause and cries of "that is right"). Some weeks since it was announced by the chairman of the republican state executive committee that he desired to have a vote on the floor of the convention as to who should be made chairman of it. That position was acquiesced in by those who for any reasons desired a change in the chairmanship.

"We came here expecting to vote. Last night, before the nomination of state officers, in violation, as I understood it, of every precedent in every year, the 21 members of the republican executive committee met and made a choice. Against that, protest (applause). What we ask is that there be a vote here upon the floor of this convention. Shall Senator Dick be chairman of the republican state committee or not? Cries of "No," "No" and "Yes."

"If the vote is in the affirmative I have to say that those who oppose it will acquiesce in that selection whatever our opinion may be as to the wisdom or unwisdom of it. (Applause). We do that because the majority should rule. But if the majority vote the other way, we say that it is but fair to the people of the state of Ohio, it is the proper course for the republicans to pursue, it means party victory more surely, if he shall step aside and some one else be selected in his place. (Applause)."

"Now I trust there will be no long discussion of the subject but that we will come to a vote and that whoever is chairman of the state republican executive committee he will be able to go before the people of the state: 'Saying I was chosen in a way which no man can criticize.'

Mr. Chairman, I believe that is all I have to say. In fairness if the other side desire to be heard for an equal time, I trust they may be heard."

Dick Got Enough.

Cries of "Foraker" brought Senator Foraker to the front of the platform. By unanimous consent he addressed the convention briefly declaring that he "knew of no reason why a man who was good enough to be chairman for Wm. McKinley and who is acknowledged to be one of the best chairmen ever known," should not be continued in that position.

The convention was in a turmoil as he concluded and the chairman had difficulty in restoring order.

Finally Harry M. Daugherty, associated with Burton in the anti-Dick contest was recognized. He declared there "was nothing personal in politics with me" and the convention was again in a roar of disorder. At last he said:

"I am not here to pluck a feather from the honor of any man."

He declared himself ready to sign an agreement that he would never be a candidate for any office. He recognized superior qualities of the

THE MAD PULAJANES

Were Being Slaughtered By American Troops For Killing Officer.

By Associated Press.

San Francisco, Sept. 12.—A special dispatch from Manila says: In revenge for the punishment inflicted upon them by the regular troops for the killing of Lieut. Roscoe Treadwell, of the Philippine scouts, the Pulajanes attacked a detachment of the 24th infantry (colored) on the night of the 10th and before they were driven back they killed two and wounded eight of the colored soldiers. Early on the evening of the 10th the bandits rushed the camp of Treadwell and succeeded in killing the officer. The colored troops came to the rescue and drove the fanatics from the field killing ten and capturing a large number. The 24th then went into camp near Bara Leyte, near the scene of the engagement. The band returned during the night and attacked the camp. In the confusion of the darkness the regulars were badly cut up before they realized that the Pulajanes were upon them. The colored troops were attacked in their tents, the natives slashing the canvass with bolos and falling upon the sleeping soldiers.

The men of the 24th went into the fight with their pistols, and routed the Pulajanes, killing and wounding many of them. In the darkness a few of the Pulajanes escaped.

WILLIAMS PRESENT

To Hear Arguments of the Southern Railroad Managers.

WHO ASK PERMISSION

To Change Rates on Cotton Upon Less Than 30 Day's Notice.

Washington, Sept. 12.—The interstate commerce commission today heard arguments regarding the petitions from various cotton carrying roads for authority to change rates on export cotton upon less than thirty days notice. It was the first time that the full commission has been present since the membership was increased.

An interested spectator at the hearing was Representative John Sharp Williams of Mississippi.

T. J. Freeman, general counsel of the Texas Pacific railroad, was the first witness. He explained the old system in vogue, under which he said there was no published export rate to the port of export but the lowest combination of water and rail-rate through any port from any point fixed the rate. His contention was that if his railroad filled the inland proportion to the port of export and added to that each day the water rate to the foreign destination, the law would be fully complied with. But he said, in order to make this plan effective and to meet commercial conditions the railroad should be allowed to issue a through bill of lading from the original destination to the foreign point of export.

WRAPPED IN LINEN

And Buried In Hole Hewed From Solid Rock.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—A dispatch to the Record-Herald from Fulton, Ky., says: "Col. Jim Broder, a pioneer capitalist, of Fulton, died yesterday. Broder two years ago had a solid rock hewed into a grave for himself, and bought a casket in which he had laid to rest its preservative qualities. He was wrapped in 40 yards of linen, which he had purchased some time ago for a shroud. Broder left instructions that he wanted to be buried forthwith, 'without any frills' as he often said, so he was laid in the strange grave a few hours after he died. A bottle of old liquor was interred with the body of 'Colonel Jim,' as he was known in Western Kentucky."

KELLY GIVEN THE DECISION.

By Associated Press.

Boston, Sept. 12.—Hugo Kelly, of Chicago, who claims the middle-weight championship, was given the decision over Sailor Burke, of New York, in the fifth round of a scheduled 15 round contest at the Lincoln club in Chelsea last night. Referee Maffit Flaherty stated that his decision was based on the action of the New York men dropping to the floor three times without being hit. The contest was a slugging match throughout, with Kelly the aggressor.

White Man Also Detained and Put Through a Hard Sweating.

By Associated Press.

Philadelphia, Sept. 12.—A negro is under arrest as the result of the murder of Mrs. Morris K. Lewis, who was murdered and the body thrust into a closet at a boarding house in this city on Monday. The detective department today sent broadcast an order for the arrest of a white man in connection with the case.

Harry Somers, a boarder at the house where the crime was committed, was "detained" at headquarters last night. While it is stated he is not under arrest, it is known that Somers has been put through a sweating. Mrs. Chas. Keller, owner of the house, was also closely questioned but it is said nothing concerning the murder was developed. It has developed that Mrs. Lewis was not shot; the weapon used was a long thin blade, it penetrated the neck, severing the jugular vein.

THE BIG STICK

Is Not a Lost Art Says Bonaparte.

PROFESSION OF ARMS.

President Defended For Review of the Middies On Labor Day.

New Marines Advised They Must Under the Law Be Gentlemen.

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 12.—Secretary of the Navy Bonaparte this morning delivered to 85 midshipmen of the first class Lie diplomas which they have earned by a special summer course instead of waiting to graduate with their class mates next February. The graduation exercises were exceedingly simple and short. Upon Secretary Bonaparte's arrival at the court of honor in front of Bancroft Hall, in which the graduation exercise took place he was received by a company of marines and the academy band and the shore battery fired a salute of seventeen guns in his honor. Secretary Bonaparte in his address said in part:

Young Gentlemen: You begin today the work of your profession. For three years you have tried to learn how to do this work. With what success the days before you will show. Hereafter you belong to your profession, and in my trespass on your attention this morning I shall say but a few words as to what that profession is:

First: It is the profession of a gentleman. To say this in your case is not an ebullition of snobishness, but the statement of a matter of law. For each one of you it is a legal duty to behave as a gentleman and each of you may be tried and punished as for a crime, if he fail in this duty.

Secondly: Your profession is the profession of arms. You have chosen a military life. When the president reviewed our fleet, some persons saw, or affected to see, some incongruity in his choice of "Labor Day" for the purpose. Why? He saw aligned on the ships as he passed some 15,000 American citizens, all of them either officers or men fairly entitled to be called "workmen." Why could not such workmen pass in review before the chief officer of our navy as appropriately on "Labor Day" as on any other day? The distinction really lies, not in the labor, but in the motives and methods of the laborers; men who serve their country work not for their good but for hers, not that they or those dear to them may be the better for their toil, but that she may be safe and peaceful and honored.

"I saw not long ago the prediction that 'in forty years war would be a lost art.' This sapient delverance rolled along in that flood of talk about the beauties of peace and the horrors of war which ripples around us just now, as it has from time to time during all the history of the civilized mankind, too often as a prelude to bloody and disastrous wars. I am not prepared to say that war will never become a 'lost art,' for I am not gifted with that confidence in my own omniscience which has been vouchsafed to some among my countrymen, but I am quite ready to say that this happy consummation will not be attained in forty years or eighty years, or until men have become either better or worse than men."

They had established a station on the river Ozernaya when the Russians discovered their presence. They were unable to get one schooner away in time and it fell into the hands of the Russians.

DOUBLE TRACK

Is His Dream for the Wabash.

President Gould Feels That Shippers Must Be Protected.

EXPLICIT STATEMENT

To Bondholders Who Are Advised to Await For Their Interest.

Kind Treatment By the New York Central Is Acknowledged.

By Associated Press.

New York, Sept. 12.—George J. Gould, who returned from abroad yesterday, indulged, says today's Herald, in some comments regarding the duty which a great railway system owes to the public as constrained with the consideration it should give to holders of its securities.

These views were given when Mr. Gould was speaking of a plan recently announced for exchanging the $26,500,000 Wabash debenture bonds on which the system has been unable to pay interest for new securities. The bondholders have been making demands for payments of interest for a year, owing to increased earnings, which for the last few years have been devoted to improving the system.

"We cannot keep the Wabash railroad in a proper condition," said Mr. Gould, "and at the same time make any payment on the debentures. The railroad owes a duty to the public fully as much as it does to its security holders, and the latter surely recognize this fact. We cannot let the property run down to the detriment of the shipping interests of shippers."

"We cannot ignore the demands of the public for proper transportation facilities and it is our duty to provide them. There is urgent necessity for double tracking from St. Louis to Chicago and other points. We cannot sell bonds to do this work, owing to the debenture mortgage, and the only way for us to accomplish it in existing circumstances is to carry on the building out of surplus earnings."

"So the Wabash railway cannot be properly maintained unless we adopt a plan for the exchange of the debenture bonds, as now proposed, under which the bondholders are to get new four percent consolidated bonds and preferred and common stock. I hope the plan will go through, as it is to the best interest of the bondholders. I am the largest individual holder of debenture bonds and I am willing to deposit mine for new securities. Whether the plan will be carried out or not, rests with the bondholders."

Mr. Gould expressed pleasure at an arrangement made with the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroads regarding terminals for the Wabash at Pittsburgh, Pa.

"The Vanderbilt interests," he said, "have treated us well in this matter and met us in the most friendly spirit."

chairman, but he maintained that under existing conditions, a change was advisable. Congressman Robert M. Nevin, followed in a strong protest against the humiliation of a man who has served you so long and so ably as Senator Dick."

A vote was taken and the roar of "Noes" was followed by a prompt declaration that the motion was lost. However, on demand a roll call was ordered.

Motion Lost.

The motion was lost, enough negative votes being cast to defeat it long before the roll call ended. The vote as announced was 285 yeas; 573 noes.

Senator Dick took the platform on the announcement of the vote and expressed his thanks for the call to "once more lead the republican party to victory." Every man had his preferences and had a right to them, he said, and then appealed for the writing of a "platform on which all republicans could unite," and "from this on let all republicans look alike to us," followed with an urgent plea for united efforts for "renewed victory and great success." He closed with an assurance that he bore ill will to no man, but wanted to give to every individual the same right he claimed for himself.

The senator was applauded heartily as he took his seat.

The report of the committee on permanent organization was amended on motion of Wade Cushing, whose place as secretary was taken by John R. Molloy.

Governor Harris, who was named for permanent chairman, was given a particularly cordial greeting and began at once his brief speech of acceptance.

Governor Harris said:

After returning his thanks to the committee on Permanent Organization and the convention for the honor conferred, Governor Harris in part, said:

If I succeed as your presiding officer in this great convention, it can only be through your earnest and hearty support which I hope to receive. This convention is composed of good representative men, coming from all parts of the state to adopt a platform on which every republican can stand and to nominate a ticket which every republican will support at the coming election. While we are at present assembled under such favorable circumstances, let us review briefly the past and look with confidence to the future.

For over half a century Ohio has been a republican state. There are exceptions to all rules, and Ohio has had her "off years." The records show that under normal condition Ohio has always been republican and that the reverses of "off years" were due to abnormal conditions that might have been prevented.

Our duty today is, therefore, to waive personal preferences in the interest of party principles. By getting together now, such normal conditions would prevail as to secure the continuance of republican prosperity.

We are told that there is no way of judging the future but by the past, and that history repeats itself. If we want to profit by our experience, we should remember that when the republicans pull together, they have never failed to carry Ohio, and that the results in "off years" were due to a lack of harmony.

The first ticket the republicans nominated in Ohio was headed by Salmon P. Chase for governor in 1855, and it was elected. There have been fifty-one state elections, since that time and in only six of them have the democrats elected their entire ticket.

In 1862 Armstrong, Democrat, was elected as secretary of state because many thought that Lincoln was going too slow in prosecuting the Civil war.

In 1874, William Bell, Democrat, was elected as secretary of state during the greenback craze of that time.

In 1877, Bishop, Democrat, was elected as governor along with the republican ticket. At that time the O'Connor legislature made Pendleton senator. That legislature was named after its most notorious member, Representative O'Connor of Montgomery county, who had previously served in the Michigan penitentiary. The affliction that befell Ohio then was due to the disaffection among so-called stalwart republicans over the southern policy of President Hayes.

On account of the passage of the Pond law, the predecessor of the Scott law, the Dow and the Alkin laws, the republicans were defeated in 1882 and 1883. Townsend, Republican, was defeated by Newman, Democrat, for secretary of state in 1882 and Foraker was defeated by Hoadley for governor in 1887. At that time the Coal Oil legislature elected Payne to succeed Pendleton in the senate.

The last complete victory of the democrats in Ohio was 17 years ago when James E. Campbell in 1889 was elected governor and Brice succeeded Payne in the senate. The result was due to the lack of harmony.

In four other "off years" of the past fifty-one state elections the honors were divided.

In 1867, Hayes, Republican, was elected governor over Thurman, Democrat, but the democrats carried the legislature and made Thurman United States senator. The republicans then lost the legislature because of a proposed amendment to strike out the word "white" out of the constitution. That issue involved the right of negro suffrage.

In 1873 William Allen, Democrat, was elected governor, but the rest of the republican ticket was elected. The "rat" money craze, started in that year, also resulted in the democrats carrying the legislature and selecting Thurman as senator.

In 1892 the democrats elected only one of the 21 presidential electors. They took an unimpaired period of four years, years of republicanism and prosperity until 1896 when the democrats elected the head of their state ticket and tied one branch of the legislature. The conditions that have confronted the party the past year are familiar to you all. All realize that they are not normal. The history of the past year, as well as of former years, shows, whether right or wrong, that the sentiment prevailing among the masses has controlled the elections, no matter what may have been the prevailing sentiment in the conventions.

The people of Ohio do not trust the Democratic party and never have trusted it. Never since the republican party came into power have the people of Ohio entrusted the duties of government with any and sundry personal preferences for party principles. No Democratic governor or any other state officer in Ohio ever received the popular endorsement of a second term since the formation of the republican party. The grand old party has not always met the fullest expectations of all the republicans, but when the spells of disaffection resulted in Democratic success, the people invariably got enough of the change with one term.

On the other hand, the republicans have been entrusted with power for decades and longer in succession. From the election of Campbell in 1889 to the election of Pattison in 1905 there was a continuous period of sixteen years, and then the change was due to abnormal conditions that might possibly have been prevented. With all seeking to do right and sacrificing personal preferences for party principles, there can be no material differences. It is now up to this convention to have its action conform to the normal conditions of the party. With harmony, sincere harmony, real harmony, republican success is assured.

The Resolutions.

The report of the resolutions committee was as follows:

"For fifty years the republican party has commanded the confidence of the American people by its patriotism, by its ability to deal wisely with great public questions, and by the moral program of its leaders.

"In the complete control of national affairs, we have lifted the country from the deepest financial depression to unexampled prosperity and won for the republic a pre-eminent place among the nations of the earth. We have re-established the McKinley tariff; firmly established the gold standard, removed burdensome taxation; reduced the public debt; uncheated the sword in behalf of the oppressed; established peace and order in the Philippines, dealt justly and liberally with our soldiers and sailors; prosecuted wrong-doers in the public service wherever found; curbed the undue power of corporations; inaugurated the Panama canal and promoted peace among the nations of the earth.

In the administration of state affairs we have been equally successful. Our finances were never in better condition, our state institutions are administered wisely and well and as economically as a just and liberal policy will permit.

Our temperance legislation has been upon the republican lines of high taxation and of local option, which principle we affirm has proven successful and has been followed in other states.

The sudden summons of Lieut. Gov. Andrew L. Harris, to the governorship of Ohio, found him fully prepared by ability and extended public service, sincerity of purpose, devotion to duty and genuine independence. His administration and administration of all the state officials, merit the approval of the people of Ohio.

The republican policy of protection must be sacredly maintained. It is the foundation of our gratifying and unparalleled prosperity and commercial eminence. Eventual correction of schedules along protective lines must be made by the republican party whose devotion to the policy of American markets for American industry is the guaranty of the manufacturing world.

The republican party has enacted all the effective legislation in restraint of monopolies, trusts and unlawful combines and to prevent railroad and other trade discriminations, and will provide such further enactments as experience proves necessary for the correction of private or corporate abuses. We rejoice in the awakening of public conscience to the dangers of inordinate wealth lawlessly used along with that wholesome public opinion that is made effective in the fearless enforcement of the law.

We most heartily approve and endorse Theodore Roosevelt and his administration of public affairs. True to the principles of the republican party as enunciated at Chicago in 1904 he has more than met and fulfilled our high expectations. His sagacity, patriotism, commanding honesty and courage, his lofty ideals of public duty and of private citizenship, have won for him an unique place in the confidence and regard of the American people. We express our renewed confidence in his ability, his patriotism and his true devotion to the people. To him belongs the principal credit for the long list of beneficent laws enacted at the last session of congress and we are proud of his leadership and pledge him our loyal support in the future as in the past.

To carry out the policies which mark his administration and to enable him to complete the mission the American people entrusted to him two years ago, it is imperatively necessary that he be aided by a republican congress. A hostile house of representatives would thwart his high aims.

We most heartily and without reserve approve and endorse our distinguished senators, Joseph Benson Foraker and Charles Dick, Ohio's representatives in the senate have ever held a commanding position among the statesmen of the nation and we glory in the conspicuous and effective work of Senators Foraker and Dick in legislative accomplishments and republican leadership. Patriotism, ability, courage and fidelity to official oaths have given them front rank in the senate and brought credit to themselves and this commonwealth. We dispute no rights to devotion, to honest conviction of duty in all matters of legislation, believing it in harmony with a representative form of government and a necessary safe guard of constitutional liberty.

The record of achievement of the last session of congress is unsurpassed. Among the laws it passed are the railroad rate bill, the pure food and meat inspection laws, the free alcohol law for the use of manufacturers, the laws safe guarding naturalization, the employer's liability statute and the requirements of domestic material for constructing the Panama canal. This congress fixed the type of the Panama canal, it improved the consular service and limited the immunity of witnesses in criminal cases in order that violations of the anti-trust laws might be more certainly punished.

We favor just and liberal laws to promote labor's truest interest. We point with satisfaction to the laws enacted for bettering the conditions of labor, including statutes for the protection of health, safeguarding of the lives of those who toil in mine and mill and for the suppression of child labor, and we favor the lessening of the hours of labor, whenever reasonable and practicable.

Congress should encourage the up-building of our merchant marine to regain the carriage of our foreign commerce and to extend it.

There must be no check to the policy of strengthening the American navy. A strong navy is the greatest guaranty of peace that we can offer to the world.

"We favor liberal federal appropriation for the improvement of the Ohio river. We urge that a policy of improvement be adopted that shall guarantee the permanency of these important public works.

"We urge the enactment of a state banking law which shall provide such thorough regulation and inspection as to safeguard the interest of all depositors.

"We favor a law providing for the nomination by popular primary elections, such primaries to be held by all parties at the same time. Until otherwise provided by law when a U. S. senator is to be chosen, notice shall be given to the republicans of the state, in addition to making other nominations, shall endorse a candidate for United States senator so that at the primaries the republican electors of the state in the selection of delegates to the state convention may have opportunity to express their preference as to candidates for that office.

"We favor the reduction of representation in congress and electoral college in all the states of this union, where white and colored citizens are disfranchised, to the end that the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States may be enforced according to its letter and spirit.

"Republican legislators have reduced the state tax levy very much and we will by further legislation wipe out that levy entirely so far as permitted by constitutional limitations. In order to meet the evils and inequities of our present system of direct taxation, we favor a constitutional amendment.

"We favor the extension of the merit system in state and municipal offices.

"We glory in genuine leadership, but we declare our hostility to all attempts to trample or control the free action and will of the people either upon measures or candidates, by individuals, or committees, and we hereby instruct the state central committee, the creation of this convention, in making its next call for a state convention to give notice that delegates must be chosen in properly called conventions or empty advertised primaries to secure admission to that convention.

"Finally we appeal to all the people of Ohio, by the great achievements of the republican party, by all that it has accomplished and is accomplishing for the welfare and prosperity of the people in state and nation to loyally support the party in the present campaign."

VOTE FOR SENATORS.

Defeated as Was Minority Report for Tariff Revision.

W. H. Boyd, of Cleveland, presented a minority report giving substitute plank on tariff revision and on a direct primary vote for U. S. senators and addressed the convention in their support. General Keifer took the platform in opposition to the tariff revision plank.

On the question of primary vote on senatorship, a vote was taken resulting in its defeat. The other amendment also was defeated. The report of the committee was then adopted.

Tribute to Pattison.

Chairman Harding, who presented the report of the platform committee first presented the following as a separate report:

"The republicans of Ohio, in state convention, assembled, desire to pay a sincere tribute of respect to the memory of our late chief magistrate, Governor John M. Pattison. He was a loyal and devoted son of Ohio and always had at heart the best interests of the state. Our deepest sympathy is extended to his immediate friends, and especially to his family, whose loss is keenest and greatest.

"This convention directs that Mrs. Pattison be presented with a copy of this resolution, signed as adopted by a unanimous vote."

A LIVING SUN DIAL.

In the grounds adjacent to Wentworth castle, in England, is to be seen a unique sun dial, which is composed of a fine yew tree for the pin and closely cropped box bushes for the Roman figures and borderings. It was planted over two hundred years ago and is still in a good state of preservation. Its timekeeping compares favorably with sun dials of more modern construction.—New York Tribune.

TAXING ART IMPORTATIONS.

The tariff tax on works of art is not the least scandalous and irrational item of the existing schedules. It was a result of the rampant protectionist spirit which prevailed when the McKinley bill was made a law and which reached ridiculous heights when later the Dingley bill was framed. The tax is imposed in the interest of art considered as a manufacturing industry—an absurd idea. Producing works of art is not our industrial enterprise, but is a work of genius comparable with the sublime works of nature.—Baltimore Sun.

WERE ALL GREAT MEN.

Soon after Mr. Choate returned from England he met Senator Depew. They talked of olden times and dinners and banquets. The result was that they went out to get a good old 15-cent lunch. On the corner they met Pat Flanagan. They asked him to show them a good, cheap lunch room, which he did.

The insurance senator paid for the three. They made two or three rounds and had a good time, so Mr. Choate asked Pat and Mr. Depew to the Waldorf for a "good" dinner. Pat went along and had a great meal, with 25-cent cigars after the end.

Near the close Mr. Depew said, "Now my good fellow, we would like to know who you are and your business."

Pat listened and the senator went on, "I am the junior senator from New York and that gentleman" (pointing to Mr. Choate) is our Ambassador to England."

"If you are Mr. Depew, the senator, and you Mr. Choate, the ambassador, why, I am the emperor of China."

Mr. Depew thought an insurance investigation had struck him.—New York Times.

A BISHOP AMONG ARCHITECTS.

Bishop Vincent was praising at Chautauque the Chautauquan architecture.

"Beautiful buildings," he said, "are a perennial delight, and the architects who give us them should be more highly honored and rewarded than they are."

"Whenever I look at our superb buildings here I think of what their architect once said to me. He said that a bishop employed one of his brothers in the designing and erection of a fine house. When the house was completed the bishop was well pleased."

"My good brother architect," he said, "don't you think that your charges are too high? The yearly salaries of many of my curates don't equal the amount of this bill of yours."

"Very likely not," the architect replied, "but I am not a curate, but a bishop among architects."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Because you say you intend to do a thing, it isn't done.

SOUTH SIDE ITEMS.

High Priced Fodder.

The boys have the laugh on Frank Bluer, of south Scott street, the Kibby street blacksmith. Frank owns a horse, and occasionally, not often, but once in a great while the animal wanders away during the night, but never gets far from home. Last night "Shid-doo" left his own bed and board and made himself perfectly at home by feasting on a sheaf of corn-cobs in the rear of a neighbor's barn. Now, the neighbor did not approve of the fresh actions of the horse, and the animal was captured and locked up. When the jolly blacksmith went after his horse, a fee of one dollar was asked for the feed of fodder. Here is where the smile came off and the blacksmith's chin dropped below zero, but in order to secure the animal, the price was paid. Now the horse-shoe bender is kicking on the high price of fodder, ($1 a feed), and has taken a solemn vow never to give his horse another "outing" or allow it have any more luxuries.

Brief Mentions.

Fred J. Rupe, son of Rev. C. M. Rupe, of west Kibby street, left this morning for Granville, O., to take up his studies at Denison College. Another Lima young man who is now a student of that college is Eugene Hillman, of west Market street. He left yesterday, to resume studies.

Mrs. Lelia Frock, of south Jackson street, was taken to the City hospital in Bennett's ambulance last evening. She is a victim of a complication of diseases, and is critically ill.

Thomas Connor, of 718 east Vine street, enjoyed his vacation by taking in the Clover Leaf excursion to St. Louis. He returned last evening, and will "rest" several days before resuming work.

Mr. and Mrs. James Pepple, of south Central avenue, and Mrs. Wm. Walters, of south Jackson street, returned today from a visit with West Newton relatives.

What has become of the man who "knew it would rain on the county fair?"

Last summer Lima liverymen went to Elida to help transfer the crowds from the village to the pioneer picnic, but when a license was demanded, they were "sore." This year a fellow came into the city from afar, with an auto, to help transfer the crowds to the county fair, and new two or three liverymen are sore because there are no chances for charging the fellow a high license for "helping out." Funny isn't it?

After a visit of several weeks with relatives and friends in Cleveland, Mrs. James Lewis, of south Main street, has returned home.

Quite a number of Stella Rebecca attended the convention at Celina yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Bishop, of Cincinnati, are guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hoffman, of west Vine street.

Charles Zuremehly has traded his south Elizabeth street home for the Ed Crider farm, near Elida, and will remove his family to the country the latter part of this month.

Teddy, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Gilmore, of south Main street, has been quite ill the past few days, threatened with pneumonia.

This morning Elmer Barth, the grocer on south Main street, left via the Pennsylvania railroad for Pasadena, California, where he will visit his brother, David Barth, and wife, and the Roy Thomas family.

Mrs. George Thornberg and baby, of south Elizabeth street, will go to North Baltimore tomorrow, to visit relatives.

Woman's Kidney Troubles

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is Especially Successful in Curing This Fatal Disease.

Mrs. J. W. Lang and Mrs. S. Frake

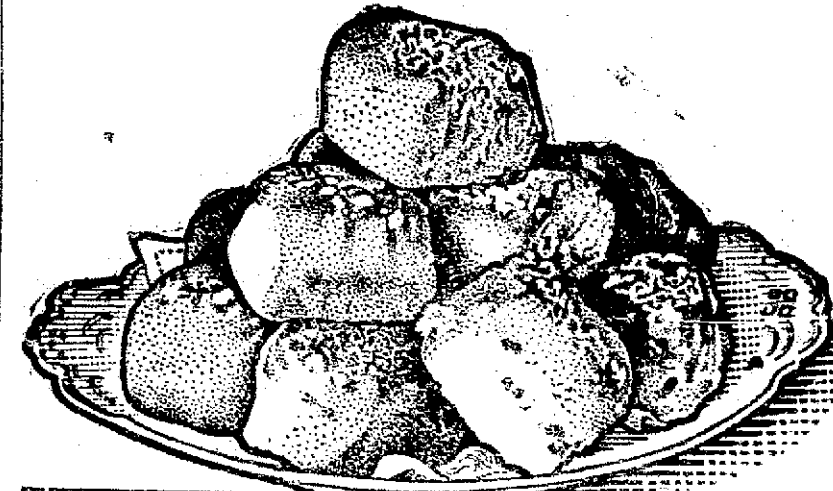

Of all the diseases known, with which women are afflicted, chronic kidney disease is the most fatal. In fact, unless early and correct treatment is applied, the weary patient seldom survives. Being fully aware of this, Lydia E. Pinkham, early in her career, gave an exhaustive study to the subject, and in producing her great remedy for woman's ills—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—was careful to see that it contained the correct combination of herbs which was sure to control that fatal disease, woman's kidney troubles. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the only one especially prepared for women, and thousands have been cured of serious kidney derangements by it. Derangements of the feminine organs quickly affect the kidneys, and when a woman has such symptoms as pain or weight in the loins, backache, bearing-down pains, scalding or burning sensations or deposits in the urine, unusual thirst, swelling of hands and feet, swelling under the eyes or sharp pains in the back, running through the groin, she may infer that her kidneys are affected and should lose no time in combating the disease with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the woman's remedy for woman's ills.

Mrs. Samuel Frake, of Prospect Plains, N. J., writes: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I cannot thank you enough for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; a Woman's Remedy for Woman's Ills."

Women suffering from kidney trouble, or any form of female weakness, are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, her assistant before her decease, and for twenty-five years since her advice has been freely given to sick women. Out of the great volume of experience which she has to draw from, it is more than likely she has the very knowledge that will help your case. Her advice is free and always helpful.

THE STAGE.

Everyone who is keenly alive to the machinations of trusts and kings of finance cannot but appreciate "The Lion and the Mouse" which production will be seen again tonight at the Fairport opera house.

The play is by Charles Klein and makes a distinct innovation in the development of the American drama for Mr. Klein has utilized a phase of national life which has never before been used for stage purposes, and which as a result proves of intense interest.

Human nature is faithfully depicted in the drama "Her First False Step," which comes to Fairport Tuesday night. It contains several interesting character types and an abundant lot of good comedy. It is from the pen of the famous playwright, Joseph LeBrandt, which alone is enough to guarantee its high standard of excellence.

A new and refreshing melodramatic, musical, funny play called "The Cowboy Girl" is due in this city on Friday night and will be offered at the Fairport opera house. "The Cowboy Girl" is the newest thing out and Kuroy & Britton, have a big winner. Lem B. Parker wrote the book and lyrics, and W. R. Williams composed the many catchy special musical numbers.

SELF-SACRIFICING.

A little story comes from Geneva, Switzerland, that brings out the thought that human love and devotion, yes, and self-sacrifice, know no race boundaries.

The heroine was Bertha Gallard, a 19 year old orphan, who in this country would be known as a "hired girl." She worked for kind people and cared for three children. She loved them like a mother.

A fire broke out in the house, and the parents rushed into the street in search of help, leaving the three little ones in an upper room. Bertha Gallard passed through the flames, wrapped two children in sheets and carried them to safety.

The roof was falling in, but she went back for the third child. She found it, and as the stairs were gone she appeared at a window, wretched in flames, and tossed the baby into willing hands. She then leaped from the window herself, and rushed to a hospital. She was burned from head to foot.

She whispered: "Please bring the children," kissed them, then turning to her employers, said: "Don't cry, it is all right. I did only my duty"—and died.

In the southern part of Ohio, a home burned. There was a paralyzed woman, known and loved as "Aunt Polly," and a mother and two children. The flames spread so rapidly that it was impossible to save all. And the last words heard from the sick bed of a noble woman were: "Never mind me; save the dear children."

And those were the beautiful words that a woman carried right into the presence of her maker. She was burned to death and the children were saved.

The inspiration for the greatest courage is human love. It may be love for children, for men, or for women, but the fact remains that there is no finer emotion. It brings the greatest joy. It turns self-sacrifice into happiness and the mere giving up of life, with all its attractions, seems a little thing where the love is true.—Chicago Journal.

No hope for his recovery could be entertained unless the cord could be replaced and this operation was undertaken yesterday. The spinal cord of a dog was used to take the place of the original one for about an inch.

FUTURE OF THE SOUTH.

Give free rein to your imagination and let it picture the future of a section which was one-half of the iron ore of the United States, nearly three times as much coal as Great Britain, Germany and Pennsylvania combined, which holds a world monopoly on cotton production and is rapidly becoming a great cotton manufacturing center, which dominates the phosphate rock and sulphur trade of the world, which has much of the richest territory known, which produces all the sugar, all the rice, most of the tobacco, and adds to these 800,000,000 bushels a year of grain; and then think of its water powers, its splendid rivers, its great seacoast, its expanding commerce, and remember that its cotton crop alone annually exceeds the total gold and silver production of the world, and that every dollar of gold annually mined on earth is not enough to pay the south's bill against Europe for cotton, and you will get just a faint conception of its future.—Manufacturers' Record.

THE LONESOMENESS OF WEALTH.

(From Wall Street Journal)

Twenty years ago few persons could get into the presence of Russell Sage without passing inspection by John E. McCann, who for a long time was Mr. Sage's confidential clerk. Mr. McCann served efficiently in that position, but he had a soul for poetry, and after ten years he left finance for literature.

Now that Mr. Sage has died, Mr. McCann contributes to the "Journalist" a remarkable tribute to his character. He speaks of him as a genius. He says he was a deeply religious man who had often during a full life in the storm of business "muttered a little prayer" and who, in the panic of May, 1884, "when the universe seemed crashing about his ears, looked and acted like one in deep communion with the 'infinite.'" He declares that Mr. Sage was a "true man and a gentleman."

While it was impossible for him to cringe, he did not know how to offend deliberately. The proof of his moral courage was to be found in the fact that for nearly 34,000 days he insisted on living his own life in his own way, regardless of criticism, whereas a weaker man would have been made a reckless spendthrift by the ridicule to which Mr. Sage was subjected because of his carefulness of his personal expenditures.

It has been said that no man is a hero to his valet, and few great men seem great to their immediate clerks. Whatever judgment may be passed upon Mr. Sage's career, there must have been something fine and masterful in his character to have drawn this tribute from his confidential clerk of years ago.

Mr. McCann says that after he left Mr. Sage in 1890 he only saw him three times. The last time, Mr. Sage complained that Mr. McCann had left him alone, and he was indignant when his former clerk explained that because of Mr. Sage's great wealth the visits would have been misconstrued.

Mr. McCann makes no comment upon this, but it illustrates strikingly the tragedy of great wealth. Here were two men of large ability and warm personal liking and mutual respect. More than that, they had been associated for ten years in business. But they were separated by $80,000,000, which one of them possessed and the other did not. The rich man did not consider this a bar to friendship, but the poor man did.

To visit the rich man would have subjected the poor man to a misconception of his motives; his self-respect would have been compromised. McCann told Sage that if he were poor even three Gatling guns could not keep them apart.

What did Sage's millions do for him? Were there any compensations for public criticism and ridicule, for the severance of desirable associations, for the isolation and distrust of enormous wealth?

Attack of Diarrhoea Cured by One Dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

I was so weak from an attack of diarrhoea that I could scarcely attend to my duties, when I took a dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It cured me entirely and I had been taking other medicine for nine days without relief. I heartily recommend this remedy as being the best to my knowledge for bowel complaints. R. G. ONE ON THE CABMAN.
One night Paganini was going to the Paris opera house, where he was to astonish every one by playing on one string. Being late, he took a cab, and when he arrived at his destination the cabby wanted ten francs. "What?" he exclaimed, "you are crazy; I have only had you five minutes!" "I know it is much," said the other, "but for you to make a fortune by playing on one string it must be ten francs." "Well," said Paganini, handing him the right fare, "when you can make your cab go on one wheel come to me and I will give you nineteen francs!"—La Caricaturista

Youngbach—"What's perfectly shocking?"
Miss Elderleigh—"Why didn't you see old Waderleigh just now? He kissed her as affectionately as if she had been his wife."

MANY A SLIP FOR THE FARMER.

"Raising wheat is no easy task," remarked a farmer. "One year I had 500 acres of as beautiful wheat as ever lay out of doors; it stood breast high and it seemed good for forty bushels to the acre—that meant to me a profit of $7,000."

"I had the teams and harvest hands engaged and expected to begin cutting on Monday. On Friday afternoon there came out of the northwest a greenish gray cloud. Following a heavy rain, the hail fell. In ten minutes the wheat was flattened to six inches from the ground."

"We cut a little of it for hay; the remainder rotted on the ground. The mortgage on the farm was foreclosed and I hired out by the day to support my family. Do you wonder that the wheat farmer is not boastful of his crop until he has it in the granary?"—Outlook.

FALL SNAKE STORIES.

Caught 1,500 Feet of Hissing Rattles.

(Greely Cor. Denver Republican.)
S. F. Acree, manager of the Currier ranch, recently captured 253 rattlesnakes ranging in length from 3 to 4 feet, on a sandy knoll less than one-half mile from the ranch.

Acree, who probably has caught more rattlesnakes than any other man in Colorado, procured the snakes for a Denver tobaccoist, who keeps an exhibit of the snake in his window. The Denver man offered to pay Acree $1 a foot for all the rattlers he could catch, not believing that the supply was practically unlimited on the Currier ranch. Acree and his partners set at work systematically to earn the money.

They built a large wooden box with a hinged cover and then armed with pitchforks went on a snake hunt. When the snake rolled ready to strike, one of the men lifted it on his fork while the other lifted the lid of the box and the snake was soon a prisoner.

When the men had completed their search for the reptiles, they had enough to represent $1,500 according to contract. The Denver man was astonished at the number and size of the reptiles, but finally settled by paying $1 a head.

KILL IN SHELS OF REPTILES.
Rattlesnakes have appeared in such enormous numbers in the rich wheat fields of the Upper Columbia river country that harvesters have been driven to extraordinary precautions to avoid being bitten. The use of leggings made of sheet tin is a common practice and has been strongly recommended for general adoption.

In one wheat field 50 rattlers were counted by a harvest crew. The serpents have invaded buildings temporarily vacated and all buildings are carefully examined before being reoccupied. The reptiles take up their abode in the walls whenever possible.

Lake Chelan prospectors fired a round of shot in a showing of ore and dislodged 150 snakes, 50 of which were killed or disabled by the explosion. Campers on the lakes and rivers have taken up snake hunting as a pastime and exhibit rattlesnake buttons as evidence of their prowess.

RHODES AND BEIT.
Mr. Rhodes once told a circle of friends after dinner the story of his first meeting with Beit. "I called at Porges' late one evening," he said, "and there was Beit working away as usual. 'Do you never take a rest?' I asked. 'Not often,' he replied. 'Well, what's your game?' said I. 'I am going to control the whole diamond output before I am much older,' he answered, as he got off his stool. 'That's funny,' I said. 'I have made up my mind to do the same; we had better join hands.' 'Join hands they did. Unlike Alfred Beit, Cecil Rhodes had small patience with arithmetical details. Once this characteristic involved him in a difficulty. Pitching a balance sheet into the pile of papers before Beit, he exclaimed desperately: 'Here, you understand these things; for heaven sake tell me how I stand.'—Indianapolis News.

EXPERT ACCOUNTANT

Of Eighteen Years' Experience. in Charge of Business Department of Lima Business College.

Eighteen years ago Mr. L. F. Clem began his first position as an accountant in the National Bank of North Dakota, a corporation owning and operating sixteen National and State banks in the West. In one year's time he worked up to the next to the highest position in the bank, that of assistant cashier. The second year he was placed in full charge of one of the banks of the company as cashier, and later filled the position of Auditor, the work requiring a high degree of skill in accounting.

Much of Mr. Clem's success in teaching is due to the practical experience gained by him in the above position, and in auditing the books of large concerns.

A prominent business man of Lima spoke wisely when he said: "I would rather have my boy receive instruction one month from such a practical man than to give him six under a theoretical teacher." Give your son the best training possible; the best is none too good.

To Whom It May Concern:

The bearer, Mr. L. F. Clem, has been in my employ for a period of three years. He first acted in the capacity of accountant in the National Bank of North Dakota, and then the cashiership of Rugby becoming vacant, I appointed him to that position. He is an expert accountant, and I have also found him strictly honest and attentive to business. He has filled his position with entire satisfaction. He leaves of his own accord, and the position remains open to him should he desire to return.

S.S.S. KILLS THE GERMS OF SCROFULA

The laws of nature and heredity are fixed and inviolable. Parents who are related by the ties of blood, or who have a consumptive tendency, or family blood taint, are sure to transmit it to their children in the form of Scrofula. Swollen glands, brittle bones, weak eyes, hip disease, pale, waxy complexions, emaciated bodies, running sores and ulcers, and general weak constitutions are the principal ways in which the disease is manifested. Those who have inherited this blighting trouble may succeed in holding it in check during young, vigorous life; but after a spell of sickness, or when the system has begun to weaken and lose its natural vitality, the ravages of the disease will become manifest and sometimes run into Consumption. S. S. S. goes down into the circulation and forces out the scrofulous deposits. It kills the germs and completely cures the disease. It changes the quality of the blood by removing all impurities and poisons and supplying this vital fluid with rich, health-sustaining qualities. S. S. S. is a purely vegetable medicine and is especially adapted to systems which have been weakened and poorly nourished by scrofulous blood. Literature on Scrofula and medical advice free.

ILL-FATED DAY DO NOT FAIL TO LOOK

Three Trolley Accidents Tuesday.

Motorman Miller, on Western Ohio, Died From His Injuries.

TOLEDO-DETROIT LINE

Car Dashed Into An Open Switch and Fifteen Were Injured.

C. H. & D. Passenger Train on Southern Division Wrecked.

Tuesday was an ill-fated day for the trolleys and steam lines and three mixups occurred, costing two lives.

With both feet crushed in a collision at Staging 57 this side of Piqua, Motorman Ira L. Miller, of Wapakoneta, in charge of an empty car returning north from the convention, died from his injuries in the Piqua hospital last evening. Miller was in charge in the extra and had orders to take a switch at the edge of the city to allow a southbound "regular" to pass. The cars came together at the switch, the regular crashing through the front of the extra and crushing Miller under the controller. Miller lived only an hour. No passengers were seriously injured, although several received slight cuts and scratches. Both cars were badly damaged.

The Western Ohio now has a "hoo-doo run." It was upon Miller's regular run three weeks ago that Motorman Clapper, at Cridersville, was killed. And an uncanny thing about the affair is that Clapper was taking Motorman Miller's place at the controller. Miller's wife and child thought at the time that it was he and not Clapper who was the victim. They fainted when they first heard of the fatality. But when they realized that Miller was saved to them, it was only to be stunned today by his death. He outlived Motorman Clapper less than a month.

AN OPEN SWITCH

Caused Bad Wreck on the Detroit-Toledo Shore Line.

Toledo, Ohio, September 12.—A south-bound electric car on the Toledo-Detroit short line, which left Detroit at 9 o'clock last night, ran into an open switch at Rockford, Mich., 10 miles south of Detroit, injuring 15 people. None of the injured, however, will die, it is said. The car was running 15 miles an hour when it plunged through the open switch. The passengers were hurled from their seats and all of them injured.

Motorman Menzel was the most seriously injured, and was taken to a Detroit hospital. Both of his legs were broken and crushed. He was also injured internally. Those among the injured brought to Toledo are George and J. R. McGuff, of Columbus; Maurice Harrison, Pittsburg; F. W. Plues, Martha George, Ray Vandenberg, John Allen, Captain Chas. Frederick and Mrs. W. B. Harrigan, Toledo.

Dr. Daw, of Monroe, brought the following people to the Toledo hospital at midnight: Edward Apple, Monroe, head cut; A. L. Stubbs, Indianapolis cut and bruised about the body, and John Long, Scranton, 1-enn, ankle sprained.

Into An Open Switch.

Hamilton, Ohio, September 12.—C. H. and D. Passenger Train No. 149 early this morning ran into an open switch in the Pennsylvania yards and collided with a cut of cars. Engineer Stone, of Reading, and Fireman Shockey escaped injury by jumping. Several passengers were given a severe shaking up, but escaped with a few bruises. Four freight cars were derailed.

Cured Hay Fever and Summer Cold. A. J. Nussbaum, Batesville, Indiana, writes: "Last year I suffered for three months with a summer cold so distressing that it interfered with my business. I had many of the symptoms of hay fever, and a doctor's prescription did not reach my case, and I took several medicines which seemed to only aggravate my case. Fortunately I insisted upon having Foley's Honey and Tar in the yellow package, and it quickly cured me. My wife has since used Foley's Honey and Tar with the same success." Wm. M. At the F. E. Harman Display at the Allen County Fair This Week.

THE BEST MATERIAL

Of the Kind Obtainable In Lima Is Exhibited to the Public.

On the main floor of the Art hall at the Allen county fair this week, in the northwest corner, F. E. Harman, Lima's leading and largest furniture dealer, has one of the most attractive displays to be seen at the "big show." The exhibit occupies three booths and is very well arranged.

The first or corner booth, from the west entrance to the Art hall contains a complete display of stoves, ranges and sandy other kitchen necessities delighting to the feminine eye. The center of this artistic display, is of course, held by the world famous Garland, premier of all the stove world.

In the next booth, the artistic eye is pleased through the display of old mission and weathered oak dining room furniture. The room is quite complete and looks most tempting.

In the third and last booth, the display consists of a complete bedroom suite, in golden oak, including a beautiful bed, artistic chifforer, attractive dressing table, etc.

As a whole, the F. E. Harman display is simply in keeping with the big store at 212-215 north Main street, where qualities have always been and will be unquestioned, where prices are all in intelligible figures, both in and out of special sale season and where, when complete satisfaction for one's money is an issue, one can do far better than in any other store of the kind in Lima. Isn't it better to buy good goods at the start and have something to show for your money, than to sink your hard-earned gold in shoddy merchandise, and always feel apologetic for its appearance? People are getting together on one opinion, and that is, that the shoddy shop will have to "skidoo."

MEMORY OF EFFIE

Powers, Greatest of Lima Horses, Is Re-called.

Old horsemen grown gray in the lute, stood with wide opened eyes watching the second hand on their watches at the Lima Driving Park track yesterday, scarcely believing the truth they saw being recorded. Memories of the greatest of Allen county light harness horses, the peerless Effie Powers, in the days when A. A. Scott campaigned her as a queen, were recalled as the big gray horse kept reeling off the quarters. The horse was Fred D., by Dr. Douglass, and owned by the McGettighan Bros. of Toledo. He is here in the string but will not start, and going easy paced the local track in 2:08 1-4, without ever being urged.

"There is the greatest half-mile horse in the world," was the remark of dozen old stagers. He can turn this track in 2:07 without wetting a hair. Effie Powers in a race once paced the same course in 2:08 3-4, while Hith Gado in July came the nearest to that in his race in 2:11 1-4.

Pine-salve cleanses wounds, is highly antiseptic, unequalled for cracked hands. Good for cuts. Sold by H. F. Vorkamp's drug store.

TOWNS WASHED AWAY BY FLOODS.

By Associated Press. El Paso, Texas, Sept. 12.—Mexican correspondents of the Herald say that the towns of Mexicaltitlan and Tuxpan on the Santiago river have been washed away by floods and that scores of persons are homeless. Vast earth slides have occurred on the Manzanillo extension of the Mexican Central railroad following heavy rains. It is estimated that 20,000 cubic metres of earth descended upon the road bed in various places.

NO MAGNIFYING WANTED.

The late Alfred Bell, the famous diamond magnate, had a small, handsome house on a huge lot in Park Lane, London's most fashionable street, and here he gave occasionally very elegant dinners.

An American, at one of Mr. Bell's dinners asked the millionaire what quality he considered most essential to success.

"Astuteness, provided that industry goes with it," Mr. Bell replied. "The power to see quickly and to seize every advantage, large and small alike is the quality that above all others assures success."

"Mr. Carnegie," Mr. Bell went on, "tells about a little Scotch boy who had this quality of astuteness highly developed."

"The boy's grandmother was packing his lunch for him to take to school one morning. Suddenly, looking up in the old lady's face, he said:

"Grandmother, does your specs magnify?"

"A little, my child," she answered. "Awed, then," said the boy, "and just like it if you want to know when you're peckin' my lounch."—Chicago Chronicle.

NATURE'S WORD SYMBOLS.

Beauties of Land and Sea Cannot Be Told in Words.

Colors, sights and sounds of nature peep in words (shrive) and lose their vitality. Odors of the forest, breezes from the sea, delicate aromas of the dawn, exhalations from dew laden fields, entrancing pure breath of infancy—how can we find among dumb, inexpressive human words any fair equivalent, any just translation of such rare effects and sensations in the world of nature as these? How shall we interpret myriad shades of one color in the few words at our command? How shall we put the feeling and the ecstasy of nature into the formula of mental apprehension and into the terms of literary expression?

It is as hopeless a task as if one stood as interpreter beside some charming poet of alien tongue and could catch only here and there a word and could render that word only by some unmeaning paraphrase or by some term of remote or unaccepted meaning. What charm, what coherence even, could we find?

Such inadequate transference to another sphere of what was so beautiful in its own? So to say that the sea is blue does indeed give a certain impression of one color rather than another and in a crude way suggests a general tint to our mental vision. But how opaque and dead is the one word "blue" when held up as the reflecting mirror to our minds of that world of translucent supple glory left down from heaven upon earth, air and ocean—that suffusion of azure from cerulean reservoirs which drenches nature on rare midsummer days! We have seen such flooding molten turquoise light like gems liquefied and poured over sea-coast, mountain and plain when it has seemed as if the chivalries of the angels of the ether and the sun kept pouring down new tides of gilded sky tones on the glorified landscape. We have seen rock and flower, cloud and tree, hill and valley, swim and seem to float in every gradation of the great monotone of color around us, while far after bar of indigo, violet, blue, lay far upon the sea, reentering in a thousand changing shades that end of the rainbow gamut of color in the endless enchantments of its tremulously sliding, blending, ever overlapping, infinitely shaded scale.

Oh, again, take the word silence as the pang of that great, full breathing, resonant stillness of the forest far from the dwelling of men. How flat and unresponsive and colorless is the word symbol when hung up as the silvery sounding board of what nature calls her stillness. The term silence is but a dumb interpreter of the serene, soundless, on going life in the deep woods. In that silence there is speech of thousand tongues, inaudible and voiceless, complex and intricate, as the flexured interweaving of leafy branches overhead or the gray and gold green tints that sift down upon the ragged rocks and lichenous rocks that roughen her forest aisles.—Christian Work.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

A man isn't beaten as long as he isn't discouraged.

Most family skeletons refuse to stay in the closet.

Be sure that you have an aim in life before pulling the trigger.

Never do any worrying today that you can just as well postpone until tomorrow.

When a man gets a chance to dispose of his troubles he always hoaps up the measure.

Yes, you may draw the salary, but your wife earns half the money; don't forget that.

Of course it's all right to be born a leader, but the man in the rear has a better opportunity to get away.

Many a city chap laughs when he hears of a farmer buying a gold brick. But then he goes to the race track and hands over his money to the book-makers.—Chicago News.

The Printer's Devil. Why is the printer's errand boy called the "printer's devil?" According to Moxen, writing at the end of the seventeenth century, because "these boys in a Printing House commonly black and dawb themselves when the Workmen do Jocosely call them Devils, and sometimes Spirits, and sometimes Fies." It is related, however, that Aldo Manuzio, the great Venetian printer of the fifteenth century, had a black slave boy, who was popularly supposed to have come from below. Accordingly he published a notice: "I, Aldo Manuzio, printer to the doge, have this day made public exposure of the printer's devil. All who think he is not flesh and blood may come and pinch him."

Dean Swift on Astrology. Dean Swift predicted the death upon a particular date of Partridge, the chief of the astrological almanac makers, and followed it with the announcement of his demise on that very date. Poor Partridge protested in vain that he was still alive, for the brilliant author of "Gulliver's Travels" assured him by the logic of his own pretended science that he must actually have ceased to exist.

REASON FOR DRINKING.

Russell Sage was very much opposed to drinking. He would often rail with homely and humorous wisdom against drink. "Men drink," he said one day to a broker, "because they are happy, because they are sad, because they are too warm, because they are too cold. Is there any logic in that? When I see men drinking I think of a little boy at the seashore. This little boy, at play with his bucket and shovel in the sand, suddenly ran to the edge of an advancing wave and, scooping up a handful of salt water and foam, drank it greedily, greedily. 'Oh, don't drink that,' said his nurse. 'It will make you thirsty.' What if it does?" said he. "There's plenty more."

AN INSIDIOUS DANGER.

One of the worst features of kidney trouble is that it is an insidious disease and before the victim realizes his danger he may have a fatal malady. Take Foley's Kidney Cure at the first sign of trouble as it corrects irregularities and prevents Bright's disease and diabetes. Wm. M. Melville, old postoffice corner.

WHISTLER AND THE RUSSIAN.

When James McNeill Whistler went to Venice to make those fourteen famous etchings of his he became so intoxicated with his beauty that he made seventy pastels first, leaving his etching till the last few days. These pastels made a tremendous sensation. All the art world of Venice was carried away with enthusiasm excepting a Russian painter, who declared them tricks, betting a basket of champagne he could paint six not to be distinguished from them. Mr. Whistler amiably gave some of his paper and six pastels, which were finally mixed up with those by the Russian and submitted to a jury who had seen none of them. Mr. Whistler's pastels were unmistakable and the Russian lost the wine. A few days later the two met on the Rialto and Mr. Whistler laughed a little about the wine and the bet. The Russian was furious. "You, forget, sir," he said, "that I'm a Russian, and if you scratch one you find a Tartar underneath." "Oh, no, you have it wrong," said Mr. Whistler; "you have it wrong; I scratched an artist and found an amateur."—Chicago Chronicle.

BOYS AS WAIST BUTTONERS.

The young woman who broke her arm trying to button a shirtwaist up the back need never have met with such a tragedy had she lived here in an apartment hotel. "Nobody could hook up the back of a shirtwaist more neatly than my elevator boy," said a dweller in a big West Side hotel. "He is just as quick as any French maid; he has to be quick, because he has only a minute to do it. His partner is just as good, and any woman who will take the trouble to teach a negro elevator boy to button a shirtwaist will find she has not wasted her time. All the women I know in hotels have trained the elevator boy to button their waists."—New York Correspondent in Pittsburgh Dispatch.

GOG AND MAGOG.

Various Traditions Relating to These Two Famous Giants.

Who were Gog and Magog? English tradition says that they were the last of a race of giants who infested England until they were destroyed by some of the Trojans who went to the British isles after the destruction of Troy. Gog and Magog, it is said, were taken captive to London, where they were chained at the door of the palace of the king. When they died wooden images of the two giants were put in their places. In the course of time a great fire destroyed them, but now, if you go to London, you will see in the great hall of one of the famous buildings—the Guildhall—two immense wooden effigies of men called Gog and Magog.

But there are other traditions of the two giants. One is to the effect that when Alexander the Great overran Asia he chained into the mountains of the north an impure, wicked and man eating people who were twenty-two nations in number and who were shut up with a rampart in which were gates of brass. One of these nations was Gog and another Magog, from which we readily get the names of the mythical giants. It is supposed, however, that the Turks were meant by Gog and the Mongols were meant by Magog.

We shall find many books, including the Bible, but there are the great wall and the rampart of Gog and Magog, whatever may have been the fact that gave the names of the two giants to that portion of the structure.

FEES IN ENGLAND.

The Treasury Has Many Schemes That Swell Its Income.

When a young man determines to become a barrister and enters his name at one of the Inns of Court in London or Dublin he has to pay to the government a fee of £25. And when he is a full fledged English or Irish barrister or a Scotch advocate he has to fork out a further sum of £50.

Should he desire to become a solicitor he is faced even more heavily. When he becomes an apprentice his fee to the government is £80, and his yearly duty when he begins to practice is, for the first three years, £1 in the country and £4 10s. in London or Dublin and after the third year £6 and £9 respectively. So that a solicitor practicing forty years in London will have paid the government over £400.

A law agent (Scotland) pays £60 at commencement of study and £55 or £85 on beginning practice in the sheriff's court or court of session.

If you want to change your surname of your own free will the government charges you only £10, but if you do it under the direction of some deceased benefactor it costs you £50.

Bishops pay £30 for permission to be elected and £30 more for the royal assent to their election, and the fees paid on receiving letters patent are: By a baronet, £100; a baron, £150; a viscount, £200; an earl, £250; a marquess, £300, and a duke, £350.—London Express.

The Ashes of the Dead. James Russell Lowell was a great favorite in the literary circles of London. On one occasion at a large banquet the peculiarities of American speech were discussed with English business. Lord S. called to Mr. Lowell loudly, so as to silence all other speakers:

"There is one new expression invented by your countrymen so foolish and vulgar as to be unparadiseable. They talk of the 'ashes of the dead.' We don't burn corpses. No Englishman would use a phrase so absurd."

"And yet," said Mr. Lowell gently, "your poet Gray says, speaking of the dead:

"'To be in our ashes lies their quiet fires.'"

"And in the burial services of the church of England it is said, 'Dust to dust and ashes to ashes.' We shan't be good company." A cordial burst of applause greeted this prompt rejoinder.

The Severe Test. The severest test of manhood is never found in good times, but only in hard times. It is not the man who has success when others are doing well, but it is the man who keeps up his courage and struggles on when everybody else is wavering or going down who is the hero in the sight of God and men. It is an easy matter to make good time when both wind and tide are in one's favor or when one is moving with the current, but it requires character and skill and daring to make head in spite of opposing forces or to work successfully against the current.—Exchange.

Distinguished. Visitor (in penitentiary)—Who is that distinguished looking convict? Warden—He is known here as No. 1147. Visitor—He seems to hold himself aloof from his fellows. Warden—Yes; you can hardly expect him to associate with the common herd. His trial cost the state $200,000.

The Only Way. A person of little faith once remarked to the octogenarian Anber, "What a sad thing it is, this old business!" "Yes," agreed the old musician, "it is sad; but," he added, with witty philosophy, "up to the present time no surer way has been discovered to live a long time."

A Cautious Damsel. "Dearest, with you by my side, I would willingly give up all I possess—wealth, position, parents—everything." "I know, George, but in that case what would there be left for me?"—Milwaukee Sentinel.

It's a queer fact that the higher a man rises the less chance he has of being above suspicion.—Puck.

Do You Think For Yourself?

Or, Do You Open Your Mouth Like a Young Bird and Gulp Down Whatever Food or Medicine May be Offered You?

If you are an intelligent, thinking woman, in need of relief from weakness, nervousness, pain and suffering, then it means much to you that there is one tried and true, honest medicine of KNOWN COMPOSITION, sold by druggists for the cure of woman's ills.

The makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for the cure of weak, nervous, run-down, over-worked, debilitated, pain-racked women, knowing this medicine to be made up of ingredients, every one of which has the strongest possible indorsement of the leading and standard authorities of the several schools of medical practice, are not afraid to print, as they do, the list of ingredients, of which it is composed, in plain English, on every bottle-wrapper.

The formula of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will bear the most critical examination of medical experts, for it contains no alcohol, so injurious to delicate women even in small quantities when long continued. Neither does it contain any narcotics, or other harmful, or habit-forming drugs and no agent enters into it that is not highly recommended by the most advanced and leading medical teachers and authorities of their several schools of practice. These authorities recommend the ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the cure of exactly the same ailments for which this world-famous medicine is advised by its manufacturers.

No other medicine for woman's ills has any such professional endorsement as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has received, in the qualified recommendation of each of the leading medical men of all the schools of practice. Is such an endorsement not worthy of your consideration? It certainly is entitled to far more weight than any number of non-professional, or lay testimonials.

A book of ingredients, with numerous authoritative professional endorsements by the leading medical authorities of this country, will be mailed free to any one sending name and address with request for same. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs directly feminine in particular. For overworked, "run-down," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequalled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nerve "Favorite Prescription" is unequalled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability,

THE BEE-STINGING CURE. [Philadelphia Record.] Councilman M. L. Buchanan, of Spring City, who was stung on the arm a few weeks ago for the cure of rheumatism, took two more stings today on the left leg. Yesterday he had a severe attack in his legs, with the result that he was assisted to the Jesse Moreteller Bee farm, at Spring City, where his leg was bared and stung by bees. Within 15 minutes afterward he declared that rheumatism had left his leg.

Philip Weaver, a neighbor and helper of M. Mosteller, in using the bee sting on patients, tried a sting on his black mare, and in the way the animal acted and carried on in the stable never induced him to try the cure again on himself. The horse had fallen, and its front legs were so sore and swollen that Weaver thought perhaps she had contracted rheumatism. Therefore a bee was placed on the horse's forehead, below the knee, and when the bee stung her the animal became frantic and nearly trampled Weaver under her feet. The swelling, however, has been reduced, and when driven this afternoon the animal showed little signs of lameness or soreness.

Doctors Are Puzzled. The remarkable recovery of Kenneth Melver, of Vanceboro, Me., is the subject of much interest to the medical fraternity and a wide circle of friends. He says of his case: "Owing to severe inflammation of the throat and congestion of the lungs, three doctors gave me up to die when, as a last resort, I was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery and I am happy to say, 'I saved my life.' Cures the worst coughs and colds, bronchitis, tonsillitis, weak lungs, hoarseness and La Grippe. Guaranteed at H. F. Vorkamp's drug store. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free."

ALLEN COUNTY

Delegation at the State Convention

Engaged In a Crow Eating Fest in the Gem City Last Night.

ONLY TWO DELEGATES

Remained On the Burton Wagon After Foraker's Bombardment.

Shelby County Man Chosen Member of the State Committee.

The Allen county delegation to the republican state convention went to Dayton an anti-Dick crowd and will come home tonight on the Dick hand wagon. For some time yesterday, during the preliminary battles of the factional forces at Dayton the Allen county delegates, whose election had been dictated by the Quail-Gale-Hefner crowd, did not know where they were "at." They had gone to Dayton intending to take seats on the Burton-Daugherty wagon with which they had already identified themselves when they, in their county convention here endorsed President Roosevelt and ignored the two senators from Ohio, but before the smoke had cleared away from Welfare hall at the close of Senator Foraker's bombardment delegates were falling off of the Burton vehicle like toppers off of a water wagon. The Allen county crowd had already taken a slap at the two senators by their play here for favor with Roosevelt but the "finish" of Burton could be so clearly seen in the handwriting on the wall of the convention hall that the Quailites began looking about to find a place to light. Their old time patron saint, Foraker, took a very decided stand with Sen. Dick and all but stampeded the convention with one of his characteristic fire eating oratorical stunts and the opposition began to shrivel away so rapidly that Quail's men could not stand the pressure and when noses were counted there were but two delegates in the Allen county crowd who remained consistent with their action in the local convention.

Allen's Lone Honor.

The only recognition the Allen county delegation received in the convention was conferred upon Ira Longworth who was given a place on the committee on rules and order of business. When it came to the selection of the fourth district congressman, Allen county did not have a look-in. There had been an understanding between Allen and Mercer counties by which Allen county was to receive the support of Mercer in the selection of district congressman but that agreement had a string tied to it. The restriction was that a Dick delegation was to be sent to Dayton. Don Henderson led the opposition to Quail in the fight for delegates in the recent county convention with the Mercer county alliance as one of the prizes of victory but the Quail forces won the day and Mercer county backed away.

When the fourth district caucus was held, noses were counted and Allen county, seeing the "finish," made no effort to stay the sweeping tide. As a result, A. J. Hess, of Shelby county, was elected district congressman without opposition. Ed. Taylor, of Auglaize county, was chosen for member of the committee on permanent organization. E. J. Brookhart, of Mercer county, was made a member of the committee on credentials and G. J. Gaskill, of Darke county, was selected as member of the committee on resolutions.

The "Regulars Were There."

A number of the "regular" republicans of Allen county who were turned down by the Quail crowd in the selection of state delegates at the recent county convention were on hand in Dayton yesterday and last night to see Allen county fellows shun down off of the Burton wagon and saloon Senator Dick. Among those who took exquisite pleasure in observing this performance were S. S. Wheeler, D. C. Henderson, C. V. Rumbaugh and Tom Edwards, Dr. George Hall. Mr. Wheeler and Mr. Edwards were both turned down by the Allen county convention but they were as busy about headquarters in the Algonquin hotel as any of the delegates and to show Quail that there were "others" Tom secured a bunch of convention tickets which he passed among his friends. Dayton Doing Himself Proud.

The city of Dayton is handling the big convention in a very creditable manner. The streets and business houses are gaily decorated and all of the hospitality the beautiful city can command is laid at the feet of the visiting throng. Even Chief of Police Whitaker has become cognizant of the fact that the republican party is no longer the bulwark of temperance and Dayton's frenzied "Lid" was taken off and thrown away night before last.

The fight, so far as control, and absolute control too, was concerned, ended with Senator Foraker's speech in the convention yesterday afternoon. The address was an impromptu one but it was an oratorical masterpiece and it turned the tide to Senator Dick with a sweep that carried the opposition clear off of its feet and when the convention recessed last night it was all over but the shouting.

HARDWARE DISPLAY

WELL WORTH SEEING

Artistic Arrangement of the Merchandise in Main Floor of Art Hall.

The Penny, Jones, Burden Hardware Co., successors to Penny & Penny, located at the southwest corner of Spring and Main streets, have a display of hardware at the Allen county fair which is well worth seeing. It is located on the north side of the main floor of the Art hall and is under the personal supervision of Mr. Ellis Jones.

The main point of interest, of course, centers in the majestic world renowned stoves and ranges. These popular stoves are there in all varieties and designs and are a source of much delight to the members of the fair sex who visited the Art hall this afternoon. Another very attractive feature is an arrangement of hunter's supplies, grouped together in such fashion as to make the sportsman's mouth water and wish for the game season to open.

The horse blanket and buggy robe display is also most complete as well as the artistic display of kitchen utensils. The display is well worth seeing and is typical of the high grade of merchandise carried by Lima's leading hardware merchants.

Farmer's day at the Allen county fair opened under a beaming sun this morning, and the grounds early presented an animated appearance.

All the privileges have set up their stands, and exhibits are completed in all departments. The Grand Stock Parade was called about 11:30 o'clock, and was the most representative ever seen at a county fair.

Educational awards are being made today and the first of the racing for the week started at one o'clock, there being four events carded—the Allen county trot; the Allen county pace; the four furlongs running, in heats; and the honest mule race. Cook's Hippodrome also started the first of its four events of the week which do not conclude until Saturday afternoon.

The attendance was all that was to be desired as the first real day of the fair, and to-morrow is looked forward to as a record breaker, the program of the day being shown above.

The anti-pass regulation of the board was in full sway this morning, and even attaches in the offices who might leave the grounds would be compelled to pay admission therein again. City officials are treated as any others, and all are required to walk up to the treasurer's office and deliver their mite. No badges are being used, and once inside the grounds, the rule is effective.

GREAT SHOW.

The Colonial theatre has a great show this week—two large crowds turned out last night. The musical team, Herbert and Vance the best ever seen in Lima. Henry Fink, the wandering Jew, is great; Caprice in her imitations and singing are fine; Miss Evans in her coon singing and talk, made a hit with the large crowd last night, but the best of all in fact, the finest act ever seen in Lima, are the Belmonts, in their great Levitation act, they are creating a great sensation. Saturday will be children's day and every child attending will receive a sack of candy; a fine wax doll will be given to the girl holding the lucky number, and a foot ball to the boy holding the lucky number.

FURS Season 1906-1907 FURS

It is pleasant reading to many. Women of Lima and surrounding territory know that our announcement of new furs is an event of particular interest. The elaborateness of the showing this year will delight all who admire pretty furs. You are welcome to come and look and ask questions whether you are ready to buy or not. We may frankly say, however, that you will serve your interests best by making your selection early for two good reasons—QUALITIES are of the highest and ASSORTMENT most extensive. Every piece of fur being the choicest of its class and is finished with the extreme care and perfection not possible in the goods turned out by furriers as the season advances.

We show small and large pieces for the neck of all the popular Furs and Muffs to match. A large portion of our collection are absolutely SELECT FURS, such as will appeal to wearers of high-class goods and which usually bring high prices in exclusive Furriers hands, but can be bought at this store at a big saving in comparison. We depend upon the total sales for profit—not on high prices or individual items.

MINK is the high class popular Fur of the season. We show beautiful pieces of same as also of its lower priced competitors for favor—the JAPANESE MINK, MARMOT and CANADIAN MINK, which make up splendidly and wear well. Our line of FOXES is exceptionally fine and we show a pleasing variety in SQUIRREL, OPPOSUM, MOUFFLON, FRENCH CONEY and MANY PRETTY COMBINATIONS.
